Henry Steele Commager To Be First Speaker In Liberal Forum Series

Henry Steele Commager, professor of history at Columbia University and author of the recent book of essays on "Freedom, Loyalty and Dissent," will be the first speaker in the 1955 lecture series of the Liberal Forum at the YMHA, announced Dr. Samuel C. Bukantz, chairman of the Liberal Forum.

Commager will lecture on "The Necessity For Freedom" some time in January. Arrangements are in process to secure other outstanding authorities for the Liberal Forum.

Dr. Bukantz, who had recently been elected to head the Liberal Forum for the second year, stressed that the Forum continues to obtain speakers by direct approach and not by soliciting lecture bureaus.

Bernard Fischlowitz, chairman of the YMHA committee heading the administrative unit and therefore also arrangements for the Forum, and Gilbert Harris, founder of the Liberal Forum, are again actively supporting this institution now in its 27th year.

Board Of Jewish Education Appoints Chairman For High Holiday Appeal

GOODMAN ASKS FOR COMMUNITY SUPPORT

Joseph Sacks, president of the Board of Jewish Education, has just announced that Ralph Goodman will head the 1954-55 High Holiday Appeal for the Board and Samuel Fischmann will chair the Synagogue Appeal Committee.

Goodman, long active in St. Louis community affairs, strongly stressed:

"This Appeal must succeed so that the Board of Jewish Education may go on extending its outstanding services to our ever growing Jewish community. During the High Holiday season, we Jews of St. Louis are most conscious than ever of the wonderful service rendered by our Hebrew schools to our community by providing leaders for its institutions and workers for its synagogues. We are sure that every Jew will respond generously to the Jewish Appeal which is endorsed by the Jewish Federation of St. Louis and the Vaad Hoer."

Fischmann, in taking over his committee for the Appeal, emphasized:

"When we send pledge cards to each synagogue member, it is important that they remember that their contributions are investment in boys and girls who will guarantee the preserving of Jewish tradition. To explain the program of the board, we are going to provide speakers for each synagogue."

The High Holiday Appeal of the Board of Jewish Education has been endorsed by Rabbi M. H. Eichenstein, Chief Rabbi Vaad Hoer; Rabbi Jacob Mazur, president Rabbinical Association of St. Louis; Irvin Bettman, Jr., president of Jewish Federation of St. Louis; I. E. Goldstein, immediate past president of Jewish Federation and Morris Shapiro, president of Vaad Hoer.

EGYPTIANS PUBLISH HISTORY OF ZIONISM

LONDON (JTA)—A condensed version of the "History of Zionism," by the veteran British Zionist, Israel Cohen, has been published in Egypt with a foreword by Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser.

According to a report received here, Col. Nasser says that the reason for publishing this history of Zionism is to enable Egyptians to understand Zionism from the viewpoint of a Zionist. Col. Nasser also says that the significance of Zionist history is that the Jews were able to create a nationalist movement out of a religion.

Israeli Staunchest Friend Of U.S. In Middle East—Finder

STRESSES IMPORTANCE OF BOND PURCHASES DURING HIGH HOLY DAYS

"The staunchest friend the United States has in the Middle East is the State of Israel, and the interests of both democracies can best be served during the coming High Holy Day period by the advancement of Israel's economic growth through American Jewry's support of the Israel Development Bond Issue."

This is the viewpoint expressed today by Leonard V. Finder, Chairman of the St. Louis Committee for State of Israel Bonds, in a special message marking the approach of the Jewish High Holy Day season.

"When two Nations, such as the United States and Israel, share the same concepts and precepts of justice, liberty and individual dignity, then their futures must inevitably be tied together," Finder stated. "This is particularly true today, when the cause of freedom is faced with threats from hostile and alien forces throughout the world. It is my opinion that a strong Israel is America's best ally in one of the 'trouble spots' of the globe."

Emphasizing that it is especially appropriate during the most important Jewish High Holy Days of the year for Jews in this community to purchase Israel Bonds, Mr. Finder said: "Our participation in the Israel Bond drive, which has become the vital instrument through which Israel can receive a steady flow of investment dollars for its economic future, will be a measure of our belief in the democratic ideals expounded by the Hebrew Prophets in ancient days."

Finder pointed out that communities all over the country are making extraordinary High Holy Day efforts to increase the sale of Israel Development Bonds, which are currently being sold in the United States, Canada, Latin America and Western Europe to meet a goal of $75,000,000 in 1954 for the economic expansion of Israel. He pointed out that tremendous strides have already been made in developing Israel's industry, agriculture and commerce with the dollars received through the sale of these Bonds.

TRIPS & TRAVELS

By DORIS FRIEDMAN

My husband and I took a motor trip to Wisconsin this summer. What a wonderland of lakes and parks. We drove through Illinois and watched the landscape change from drouth-ridden, lifeless crops to green, abundant fields.

In Milwaukee, at a luncheon given by the Bonds for Israel Committee, I was surprised and delighted to find Melvin Dubinsky of our city as the guest speaker.

Just before the meeting began, I had a chance to speak with several of the people there, among whom were Mr. Grossman, a businessman, Miss Becker, a school-teacher and Mrs. Steuer, an executive secretary, who asked me to tell St. Louisans that "The people in Wisconsin do not feel too differently about the Wisconsin Junior Senator than the people who are on souri."

We sat down to lunch, and a similar view was expressed quite strongly by Mr. Bernard M. Feinberg, Pres. of the United Association of Office Sales and Technical employees, and Mr. Henry Goodman, Mgr. of the Stratford Hotel.

Mr. Melvin Dubinsky spoke about setting a quota for the coming bond campaign and was responsible for several sales among the board members that afternoon.

YOU and YOUR CHILD

By Abraham J. Simon, Ph. D.,
Counselor in Child Development and Family Relations

cial influence on the child. A variety of attitudes are encountered:

1. Deny the existence of the anger. He doesn't mean it, or he is too young to appreciate the effect, or he doesn't realize what he is doing. Something is bothering him. Find and eliminate the "cause," usually by giving something.

2. Reject the anger. Convince the child that such impulses are part of a bad, wicked, or disgusting person, not quite human. To the extent experienced the person is either a devil or an animal. If the child can't eliminate them, some punishment or parental anger might judiciously be administered to stimulate the process.

3. Blame yourself. You have been a poor parent for this to have happened. Find out what you have done to deserve this and eliminate the "cause."

4. Fight fire with fire. Get really angry yourself. Make it physically and emotionally painful when the child is mean or disagreeable to you.

5. Accept the anger as part and parcel of the business of caring for the child along with the diapers, the work, and the self denial that make life with a child so different from childlessness. But it is one of the innumerable infantile and immature reactions which need to be outgrown and surrendered as the child is raised. Control and regulate the child, physically if necessary, so that angry impulses do no harm.

Smother the child during this process with ample evidence of your affection and interest in him as a total person but disapproval of this particular babyish way of reacting. Look forward optimistically to increase ability as he gets older to achieve satisfaction and solve problems without this sort of disturbance.

Big and large, five has been found to work pretty well. But if you classify yourself in five, I trust that enough of a sprinkling from one to four appears in your past to keep you human.

St. Louis—A Conservative Community?

The St. Louis community—so I was told in numerous well-meant warnings—is very conservative. It is so conservative that any new venture will fail, because the community is more absorbed in preserving the old than noticing the new. The past week invalidated these suppositions to me. The response, the criticisms, the numerous expressions of interest were the mark of a community which not only notices but is vitally concerned in its activities and welfare.

It is this spirit of cooperation upon which the USO-JWB banks their appeal to the community to provide accommodations for servicemen for the High Holidays. The form on page 5 will give all necessary information to potential hosts. The servicemen need our hospitality. We can provide it.

BOOK REVIEW

ANTIOCHUS' PERSECUTIONS REVIEWED BY H. ISRAELI

By PROF. A. CHERIKOVER
This is the first issue of "Eshkolot," a Hebrew periodical devoted to the continual influence of Greek and Roman culture in the spiritual history of the Jewish people. It is published by Magnes press, affiliated to the Hebrew University, and its editors are faculty members M. Schwabe, Professor of Greek, and Joshua Gutman, Professor of Jewish philosophy. Unfortunately, there is no indication as to the frequency of its appearance. "Eshkolot" is not a stuffy, footnoted publication; attractive in format, very readable, it is simultaneously directed at the specialist and the layman.

Greek Traditions of Tolerance
Professor A. Cherkover's analysis of "Antiochus' Persecutions and the Problems Involved" is perhaps the most significant and original contribution to a volume distinguished for its excellence. Historians have been puzzled by the violence of Antiochus' anti-Jewish persecutions, a lamentable digression from Greek traditions of tolerance. Cherkover believes that Antiochus' policy is traceable to a premature uprising by the "chassidim" in 169 B.C.E. preceding Apiphane's war on the Jews!

Premature Uprising
Jason and his Hellenistic Jews were driven from the capitol. One year later the Greek king stormed the capitol, taking a toll of forty thousand of its inhabitants, after which there was no peace between the Jews and the forces of Antiochus, led by Apolonius. Jewish guerrilla-warfare harassed the Greeks, who eventually defeated the Jews, exiled them from Jerusalem and divided their land among the Chleruchios. Jerusalem was converted into a military fortress, inhabited by a licentious Syrian soldiery, and "Baal-Shamen," the Syrian god, was introduced into the Holy of Holies. The Torah, which the Jews carried with them into the wilderness of Judah, came to symbolize to the Greeks Jewish rebellion.

There are a number of other important studies in "Eshkolot." Should this periodical maintain its high level and encourage some of Israel's younger students of ancient civilization, it will contribute considerably to a field which still offers scope for inquisitive minds.

ZIONIST MEETING TO HONOR HERZL

MRS. MEYER WISEMAN DEDICATES TORAH IN MEMORY OF HUSBAND

Dedication To Be At Temple Israel, Alton, Ill.

Mrs. Meyer Wiseman, Alton, Illinois, and family will dedicate a new Torah to Temple Israel, Washington Ave., Alton, Illinois, September 19, 1954 in memory of the late Meyer Wiseman.

Wiseman, born October 14, 1898, died March 6, 1954. He was a life-long resident of Alton, Illinois, active in local and community affairs. He was a member of the Jewish Federation of Southern Illinois, General Committeeman of B'nai Brith District No. 6, and also a Shriner, Mason, and member of the Kiwanis Club. Wiseman also served on committees for the Greater Alton Association of Commerce and the East End Business Association, and was a member of Eastern Star.

The dedication will take place at 3:30 in the afternoon with Rabbi Robert P. Jacobs officiating. After the dedication a dinner will be given by the Temple Israel Auxiliary at the temple.

AJC Lauds U. S. Navy; Asks Further Inquiry Of Anti-Semitism

The American Jewish Congress has lauded the Navy Department for clearing Abraham Chasanow of charges of disloyalty, but at the same time, has called upon Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas to determine if anti-Semitism was the basis of the false accusation.

In a letter to Secretary Thomas, Shad Poller, chairman of AJCongress' Executive Committee, also pointed out that the Chasanow case "demonstrates the need for reconsideration" of the present loyalty procedure. "Under the present loyalty program," Mr. Poller declared, "there is far too much room for action based on suspicion, arbitrary conjecture and secrecy. The natural result is that persons of ill-will have a clear field to vent to their prejudices."

Post-Dispatch Editorial, Sept. 8, 1954

Religious Pilgrims of 1654

It must have come as a surprise to many readers to learn from our Sunday PICTURES section that the first Jews arrived on this side of the Atlantic just 300 years ago. The common notion is that the relatively recent Jewish itinerant, peddling linens and laces from door to door, was the first of his line. Actually the 23 first Jewish pilgrims were of Spanish and Portuguese descent and they appeared in September, 1654, at New Amsterdam, forerunner to New York, by way of Brazil, whence they had fled to escape persecution.

The historical and religious observance, which will continue for nine months throughout the country, began Tuesday night in St. Louis in a fashion that bespeaks the friendly relations between gentile and Jews in this area. In six of the 20 synagogues and temples thanksgiving services were led by Protestant clergymen. The Episcopalians, Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist and Disciples of Christ denominations were represented in this notable display of interfaith good will. In exchange Jewish rabbis will occupy leading Protestant pulpits next Sunday.

Mayor Tucker rightly took notice of this, in his official centenary proclamation, as a demonstration of the "spirit of religious tolerance and understanding which is a vital part of the American heritage." And as an application of Jewish energy in improving community life there is the work of the Housing Committee of the Young Adult Council of the Jewish Federation in renovating a slum dwelling on South Third street.

The story of this pilot face-lifting for a slum area house by a group of interested young people is told in the first issue of the Greater St. Louis Jewish Star, which, symbolically perhaps, has chosen to launch itself at the start of the fourth century of Jewry and its gifts to America.

Community Centers Plan $10,000,000 Building Program This Year

NEW YORK—The Jewish Community Center movement will usher in the American Jewish Tercentenary year (Sept. 1954 to May 1955) with a record-breaking $10,000,000 building program to keep pace with the growing demand for additional Center facilities and services, it was announced recently by the National Jewish Welfare Board's Building Bureau, which is providing the architectural guidance to the Jewish communities engaged in this undertaking.

JWB is the national association of more than 350 Jewish Community Centers and YM-YWHA's which since 1948 have either completed or embarked upon new building projects costing $44,000,000. This year's program will involve Centers in 41 communities located in 16 states from coast to coast.

ADL PROTESTS

NEW YORK—Sharp protest by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith has resulted in a change in the Maine Medical Association's plan to hold its meeting next month at the Colony at Kennenbunkport, Maine, a resort with a discriminatory policy, it was reported this week by the ADL. Instead, the medical group, comprising 700 members, will convene at the Eastland Hotel in Portland.

HEBRAIC ORIGIN OF THE GREAT SEAL OF THE U. S.

The Bible as linked with the history of the children of Israel was the motivating force that inspired the framers of our Constitution and the designers of the Great Seal of the United States pictured above. All the symbols in both the reverse and obverse of the Seal have biblical significance. The number 13, usually accepted as being unlucky, plays a dominant factor. Though this may be partially based on the fact that there were 13 original States, the reasons go deeper than that. Each of "one" for God) in Hebrew numerically adds up to 13. Also, ancient Israel was composed of 13 tribes, counting the two sons of Joseph.

On the obverse side of the seal, besides the 13 stars forming a perfect Magen David, we find the words E Pluribus Unum, 13 letters and meaning "one out of many." The eagle, another biblical symbol, holds in one of his talons an olive branch with 13 leaves, and in the other, 13 arrows. Our flag, covering the eagle's body, has 13 bars—seven standing out as in the seven-branched candlestick.

On the reverse side of the Seal we find the pyramid, rising in a wilderness and built in 13 layers of stone. Above it, in the headstone, is the all-seeing Eye of God. The words Annuit Coeptis—meaning "He hath prospered our beginning," and again in 13 letters—are written over the pyramid. Below it we find: Novus Ordo Seclorum, meaning "An old order of the ages born anew." The Founding Fathers considered the Hebrew Republic one of the old orders of the ages.

THE PROMISE OF AMERICA

By Rabbi Joseph R. Rosenbloom,
Shaare Emeth Temple

Three hundred years ago they came. It is important for us as American Jews to commemorate and honor the first Jewish settlers in America. They were the pathfinders who discovered this land and who prepared it for those of us who came later.

However, this handful of Jews did little for America as a whole and for the Jewish people who were to follow. Their significance was that they established a settlement, and more than this, it was the promise of a new land in which others could settle in the future when the need arose.

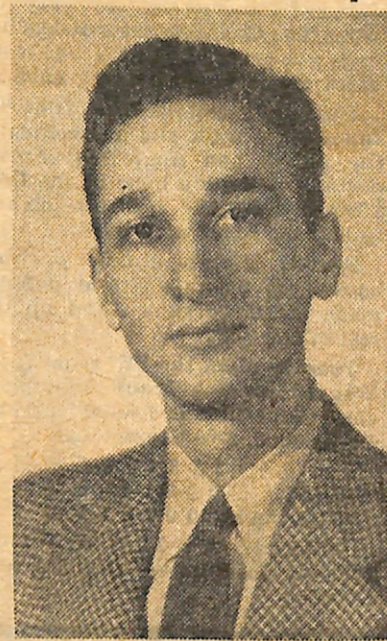

A Promise of Freedom

It is this promise of a land of freedom for our people, more than the physical discovery, that we wish to commemorate. It is the promise of liberty in every avenue of human expression that must be preserved.

Each age, however, must discover America for itself. This is not something that is inborn in each of us. We must place the promise of America into our hearts and then activate it into our actions. For here we have found a civilized way of living and a spiritual philosophy of life. If America and its promise had not been discovered where would be the hundreds of thousands of Jews who emigrated here? But we are just a small segment of the millions who came from every nation, and these millions are but a small segment of the hundreds of millions through-

Entered Rabbinate To Work With People

Rabbi Joseph R. Rosenbloom

"Rabbis should not be 'specialists'—they should enter every phase of people's lives," stressed Rabbi Joseph R. Rosenbloom, assistant Rabbi of Shaare Emeth. It was this interest in understanding people, in working and being with them which led him into the rabbinate.

Unexpectedly, due to the passing away of Rabbi Julius Gordon, Rabbi Rosenbloom has been shouldered with the responsibility of all activi-out the world who have been inspired by the history of our nation.

It is not important who discovered America, but rather what America discovered. The answer is quite simple, America discovered man.

A New Faith

Before this time each man belonged to someone else. The vast majority of human beings were slaves and vassals. With the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights, our Constitution, and our political thought in general, our country has given the world a new faith in the rights of man and in a sacredness of human personality.

While this is true of everyone of us living in America, our particular interest is in its application to the Jewish people. And rather than take this occasion to note the achievements of American Jewry, manifold though they be, and rather than list the tribulations of our people in America, let us rather understand what is the promise of America that made this land a home to our people.

Among the many principles of democracy which comprise the promise of America are the following: That due to the separate functions of the church and state, authority in these spheres should be separate. The state was to be organized to settle disputes, to preserve order, and to protect life and property. The church on the other hand was organized to worship God and to seek the salvation of souls. Thus, there would be opportunity for freedom of expression in religion. In stressing this point it was indicated that a national church was not instituted by Jesus Christ and that there cannot be a true religion which needs weapons to uphold it.

Accepts Human Diversity

The crucial factor in American democracy is the protection of minority and individual rights. The thought of James Madison on this theme has become the basis of our political system. To begin with, Madison proposed to openly recognize and accept the existence of human diversity, whether in opinion or in property. Secondly, governments should be constructed to protect such diversity.

Another of the outstanding problems that Madison saw was that in the past whenever there had been a majority it had trampled on the rights of the minority and thereby produced despotism. But the answer, Madison argued, lay not in depriving people at large of any voice in government, but rather in increasing group interest and participation.

Therefore this is what America discovered: The protection of the minority and cognizance of the worth of each individual.

Only as we rediscover America in our own time will the promise of America remain pure and forceful, preventing the disasters of history which would destroy this promise.

YMHA Organizes Interest Groups

Adult activities get into full swing at the YMHA-YWHA in a few weeks. A number of special interest groups will begin meeting on October 4th.

Will Wharton, book reviewer for the Post-Dispatch, will lead a workshop on creative writing; Leah Millman will instruct modern dance; Wilbert Berry of the People's Art Center will teach ceramics; Gilbert Davis, a former director of the Carnegie Institute will work with a group learning to speak before groups; Mrs. E. N. Carlson, lifemaster, and Mrs. Summa will instruct contract bridge; James Kelly, of the Crystal Dance Studios, will teach both American and Latin ballroom dancing; Ted Hyman, well-known St. Louis artist, will teach sketching and painting, and arts and crafts.

In addition adults will have the opportunity to improve their photographic techniques and learn Jewish cooking in other groups now being organized. Plans are also taking shape for a foreign films series, political discussion groups and family life educational series.

For further information, call Dave Fogel, Director of Adult Activities at the "Y." FO. 7-7050.

The Fixture Mart softball team, winners of the "Y" championship play-off, roared back to capture the consolation trophy in the Midwestern Jewish Welfare Board softball tournament in Cincinnati, Labor Day week-end, after being defeated in the first round of play.

In the first game, the St. Louis entry, managed by Al Sherman, were overwhelmed by the Cincinnati Nationals, dropping the ball game 19-7. Hack Ulrich, the Fixture Mart regular pitcher had trouble conforming to the unusual pitching requirements and moved over to play third base after the first inning. He was relieved by Barney Goldstein; the winning Nationals went on to the finals where they were beaten by another Cincinnati team, in a pitchers' battle, 3 to 1.

The Fixture Marts bounced back in the first round of consolation play, walloping Indianapolis 18 to 6. Herb Goffstein, borrowed from the Bonnies for the tournament, pitched all the way.

The final game, played against Youngstown, was a thriller. The St. Louis representatives were trailing 7 to 6, late in the ball game, when Gus Morganstern connected for a homer with two team-mates abroad to win the ball game and bring home the trophy. Sam Kleg, Hack Ulrich and Herb Goffstein, who hurled both winning games, also hit roundtrippers during the long weekend.

Columbus and Louisville were the other cities represented.

YWHA Girls Win Their Way Into Softball Finals

The YWHA Girls' Varsity Softball Team won their way into the finals of the Muny play-offs with a brilliant 3 to 2 victory over the General Insurors last Thursday evening. The Gus Morganstern coached club got only two singles but made them count in the scoring column.

Rosenberg collected the first hit, following a walk and a sacrifice in the fourth and Angie Unger connected for the big blow in the fifth after Coordes, the Insurors' pitcher, loaded the bases with walks.

Blackie Fiala's strong pitching backed up by an air-tight defense made the three runs stand up the rest of the way.

Tuesday night the "Y" team faces Wagner for the Muny championship. Game time is 7:30 at the Fox Playground, 2700 Shenandoah.

Bend an ear for a few happy happenings at Ft. Wood:

Add one to Cpl. and Mrs. Harlan Gordons' family. A new pink ribbon playmate for Marlon-baby girl Karen. While the adding machine is at its best, lets submit the congrats for a well earned promotion. It won't be long now Sgt. Gordon.

Another of the storks gleeful tidings were enjoyed by Lester and Ann Sender. Belated congratulations seem in order since the newcomer was of the fair sex.

Sol Rosens, a most happy soldier since his promotion to sergeant, coincided with his wife's moving to Ft. Wood.

A new fuse for a new local-light. Mr. Lepoff was recently installed as our regional director of the USO JWB. Congratulations to Ben Wallace for the splendid performance as the past director.

The Jewish soldiers here at Ft. Wood well agree that this weeks spotlight should fall on an unglorified and devoted Cpl. Morrie Kippur. In the past, since its existence, Ft. Wood Jewish personnel have been blessed with the guidance of Rabbi Goldberg, Rabbi Gordon, and Rabbi Siegman. Not so long ago, after the discharge of Rabbi Siegman, Ft. Wood was without a Jewish Chaplin. Such a phase in morale was too important to be lacking. The Post Chaplin, convinced by the impressive recommendation from Rabbi Siegman, turned to Cpl. Kippur bearing a task which rarely burdened one so young, although quite experienced and qualified.

Morrie Kippur's earnest religious environment appeared very early under the influence of his father, Abraham Kippur, who passed away some years ago.

Canton Abraham Kippur contributed much to the Jewish community of Chicago. In doing so, he made the name of Kippur a most treasured one, upon which Morrie has strengthened with his zealotness to the Jewish faith. In civilian life Morrie was director of the Youth Department of the Board of Jewish Education in Chicago. He was very active in all phases of Jewish Culture and intends to enter a Seminary after a few more years of study. Morrie was married this year to Lenore Calderon, who directed the Junior Young Judeah, a study organization in Chicago. He is a relative of Mr. Dave Sokolik of the Sokolik Meat Packing Company in St. Louis.

During the week, he held special services for those who were being shipped to permanent companies on post. He conducted Oneg Shabbat's every week and arranged for prominent speakers to attend the services. He worked together with the USO in planning week-end affairs for Jewish personnel.

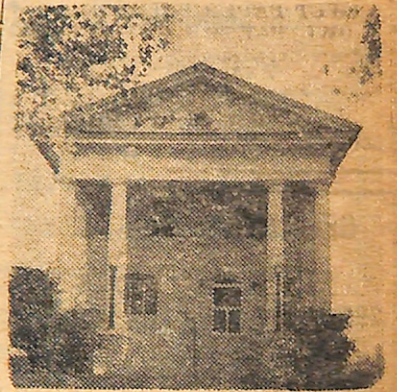

Now that Morrie has been transferred to Chicago, once again is Ft. Wood left without the guidance of a Jewish Chaplin.

MARVIN A. STEIN, General Chairman of the B'nai B'rith Fundays.

Connected with the planning of this show are members of B'nai B'rith with Morley Gluskoter, a past president of Missouri Lodge and at present District Deputy of Grand Lodge No. 2, as chairman, Charles Pian, who is a member of the Missouri Athletic Commission, and of Ebn Ezra Lodge, and Sam Muchnick, the matchmaker.

Tickets can be bought at the Arcade Building office Monday through Saturday, 8:15 a. m. through 5 p. m. The telephone numbers in the Arcade Building are GENEVA 6-4400 and CHESTNUT 1-2273. The Claridge Hotel ticket office will also be open and the phone number is CENTRAL 1-7900.

ties at Shaare Emeth Temple. Originally, he was supposed to be in charge of the religious school and young people.

The young rabbi, the youngest one in St. Louis, has a B.A. from the University of Cincinnati and B.H.L. and M.H.L. from the Hebrew Union College. He also studied at Wooster College, Ohio; at the University of Chicago and at Xavier University in Cincinnati. While studying for the rabbinate he served as Hillel director at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, for two years. He also served the congregations at Zanesville, Ohio; Petosky, Michigan; and at Greenwood, Miss.

American Jewish history is the focus of Rabbi Rosenbloom's particular interest. His thesis, "Biographic Dictionary on 18th Century American Jewry" will probably be published by the American Jewish Archives in Cincinnati. History, feels Rabbi Rosenbloom, particularly the understanding of history, can be most helpful to an enlightened humanity.

"In order to know yourself, to know your origin, to be happy with yourself you must know what you are, that means your background and your ancestors," stressed the Rabbi. His relaxed, even-toned answers began to display some rabbinical fervor when he further explained the basis for his conviction.

"How did our ancestors find happiness? How did they adjust to their surroundings and how did they find life enjoyable? The answers can be found in understanding, but understanding comes from a knowledge of history, and to know and understand history means to know yourself."

"The principle to love thy neighbor as thyself means very little—if you hate yourself. Self-hate, one of the great evils among Jewish people, can best be countered by the study of history, the study of origin. First we have to love ourselves, than we will love our neighbors." The words echoed a deep, sincere conviction. He relaxed into a smile when asked whether he had

HILLEL FOUNDATION REDECORATES AND AIR-CONDITIONS LOUNGE

The B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation at Washington University, 6142 Pershing, recently renovated its lounge on the first floor. The walls were painted a pastel green. New beige traverse drapes were hung on the south and east walls, providing a background for the Friday night religious services. New wall-to-wall carpets of beige twist were laid. A series of "Ten Commandment" pictures were newly framed and new lamps were bought for the room, while the wood furniture was refinished to a light cocoa color. A new three-speed record player was installed in the combination radio-victrola.

The lounge is entirely air-conditioned with a one-ton air-conditioning unit donated by F. Bert Baer and Charles Yalem.

The renovation was started in the beginning of July and was completed by the middle of August. The room was decorated under the direction of the house committee of the Hillel Advisory Board. Members of the committee are: Mrs. Hyman C. Weisman, chairman; Paul Rothschild, Mrs. Albert I. Graff, plus the Hillel student house committee consisting of Charlene Dubinsky, chairman; Hans Oberdorfer and Jerry Rudnick.

Florence Schwartz and Paul M. Rosenthal Wed

Miss Florence Schwartz, daughter of Mrs. Louis Schwartz, 5539 Pershing Ave., and the late Mr. Schwartz, and Paul M. Rosenthal were married at Cheshed Shel Emeth Congregation by Rabbi Benjamin Cohen. The ceremony was performed

Rose petals and leaves were applied around the neckline, the sleeves, the waistline, and were woven into the tulle skirt. The bridal veil was gathered to a crown of pearlized orange blossoms and the bride's prayerbook was topped with white orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Schraier was her sister's matron of honor and the other attendants were Miss Frances Bixhorn, Miss Martha Singer, bridesmaids, and Doreen Figler, junior bridesmaid.

Mr. Rosenthal, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rosenthal, 6612 Clemens Ave., University City, was attended by Gerald Auslander as best man. His ushers included two brothers, Gary and Robert Rosenthal; a cousin, Philip Green, and Siebert Schwartz, the bride's cousin.

A reception followed.

The bride is a former student of Washington University. Zafft was graduated from Washington University School of Law and is a member of the Missouri Bar Association. He recently returned from Korea where he served as Assistant Staff Judge Advocate of the 25th Infantry Division.

Imported chantilly lace and white satin were worn by the bride. The bodice of her gown had a scalloped neckline, and the full skirt was fashioned with a long satin and lace train. A pearl-embroidered lace headpiece held her fingertip veil and she carried a Bible marked with white orchids and stephanotis.
