Congressional Investigations Need Regulations, States Dean M. Green

Congressional investigation plays an important part in government operation, but regulations are needed cautioned Dean Milton Green, Dean of the Law School at Washington University, before a group of almost one hundred women attending the final meeting on civil rights and liberties series conducted by the Women's Division of the Jewish Federation of St. Louis.

The meeting took place last Tuesday morning in the home of Mrs. Morris Shenker, Topping Road, who was chairman of the committee for the series which was entitled, "Tell It Straight."

Dean Green pointed out that under the Constitution a witness in court has such protections as the right to counsel or not testifying against himself, but in the case of Congressional investigations there are no Constitutional safe-guards.

Need for some form of regulations of Congressional Investigations has become apparent stated Dean Green from the problems that arose through the investigations of

COMMANDER ILAN WILL DISCUSS MIDDLE EAST

Commander Ben Zion Ilan of Israel will discuss the tense situation in the Middle East and how Israel is managing to overcome its difficulties at the 4th Rally, the Chanukah-Yom Tov event, of the

The St. Louis Rabbinical Association unanimously adopted a resolution at a meeting on Nov. 2, and released Friday, opposing the celebration of the Chanukah festival in public schools "because it violates the separation of church and state."

The resolution, signed by Rabbi Jacob R. Mazur, president of the St. Louis Rabbinical Association, reads in full:

"The St. Louis Rabbinical Association goes on record as being opposed to the celebration of the Chanukah festival in the public schools because it violates the American principle of the separation of church and state. Chanukah is an important religious festival in the Jewish calendar. It commemorates a notable victory for religious freedom which preserved Judaism and the spiritual values of the Bible. Because it is basically of religious significance, placing it in the public schools means using public tax funds for sectarian purposes and conflicts with our letter and the spirit of the constitution."

"The Rabbinical Association is not unaware of the values that children receive from witnessing the ceremonies of many faiths. Nevertheless, under public school auspices this involves a break with American tradition. The values gained are no compensation for the breaching of the principle of the separation of church and state. Many centuries of struggle were required to establish this principle which made religion independent of the state and the state independent of sectarian domination."

"In our own religious schools we teach respect for and appreciation of the faith of our neighbors and their religious practices. We, Rabbi, who oppose the teaching of Chanukah in the public schools have been in the forefront of the building of bridges of good will between all denominations. But we maintain that it is not the province of the public schools to celebrate or to teach the observance of Jewish religious festivals. This view is shared not only by the local Rabbinical Association, but also by our national rabbinical bodies, the Central Conference of American Rabbis and the Rabbinical Assembly of America."

MISSOURI LODGE FAMILY NIGHT NEAR SELL-OUT

The annual Missouri Lodge Family Dinner and Party planned for Thursday at Temple Israel is expected to be a sell-out just as last year, stated Lester M. Gallant, spokesman for the lodge. Provisions have been made for 250 persons only.

The program will feature Dave Bisno, magician; short films and community singing, as well as the dinner. The ladies of Missouri Chapter will be in charge of arrangements and decorations.

Tuesday is the deadline for reservations.

For further information readers should contact Lester M. Gallant, PA. 7-9066.

Needs Urgent Support To Continue Charity Work At Hospital

Mrs. Boonshaft has a modest request. She needs "Mogen Davids," Stars of David for a Chanukah Festival, she and her committee are planning for the 600 Jewish patients at the State Hospital. Among her helpers is Mary Krutchik.

She also need candies, cigarettes, handkerchiefs and bed jackets.

It is a modest request compared to her amazing contributions. For 11 years Mrs. Sylvia Boon-shaft, 1119A Clara, has been visiting hospitals for the mental and senile patients distributing presents and cheering patients at the expense of her own money and comfort.

Last year she distributed over 1,000 lbs of candies and a truck full of gifts. How does she do it? She works, she saves—and last year she also appeared on "Welcome Travelers" and received $500 worth of merchandise for her Chanukah and Christmas parties.

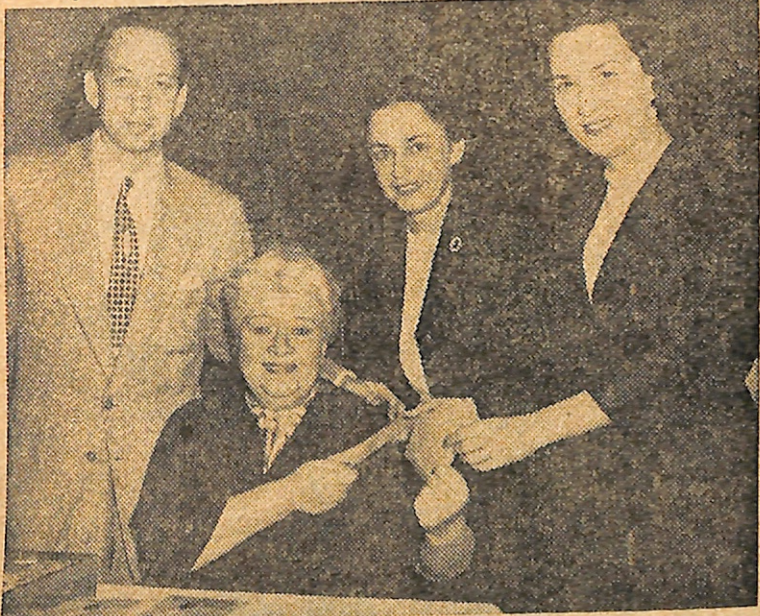

In a letter of recognition Rabbi Jacob R. Mazur acknowledges that "it was through her influence that I organized weekly services in the St. Louis State Hospital, every Tuesday morning, for the past four years."

Joseph B. Shank, the Superintendent of the Department of Public Welfare of St. Louis, states in a letter that Mrs. Boonshaft "... and her committee have been most active in behalf of the chronically ill patients at this institution ... I am most happy to recommend her activity. ..."

No festival, Jewish or gentile, has passed without Mrs. Boonshaft's appearance at the hospital. Over the years she has installed a tape recorder, a wire recorder and 52 radios, one in each hall of the State Hospital. She also installed electric razors in each male hall. A few years ago she provided a 16-year-old girl with an artificial leg—the girl has now learned to dance.

She has to work to earn money for her presents. Sometimes she goes to the hospital and a patient admires her shoes, next week these shoes will be in a box as a gift to the admirer. "I am now appealing to the Jewish people of St. Louis" said Mrs. Boonshaft, "I hope they will be generous." Hundreds of neglected souls will be very grateful for any contribution to Mrs. Boonshaft, 1119A Clara. Her telephone number is PA. 5-9464.

Irving Edison, former president of the National Jewish Welfare Board, accepted chairmanship of the 1955-56 maintenance fund campaign of the St. Louis Symphony Society. The drive will start in February.

In accepting the chairmanship Edison said: "The 1955-56 fund campaign calls for support on the part of all who are interested in keeping our great orchestra in St. Louis. There must be no substitute for our faith in the orchestra, nor for hard work in its behalf."

Lilienthal Plans Cause Of Anxiety For Egypt Jews

NEW YORK—The activities of an American propagandist for the Arab cause in the Middle East has placed the Egyptian Jewish community in a difficult position, according to reports received from Egypt.

In an interview published in the English language "Egyptian Gazette" of Cairo, Alfred Lilienthal, of Washington, D. C., author of the pro-Arab book, "What Price Israel" publicly proposed that representatives of the Egyptian Jewish community come to the United States to propagandize against Zionism. The Egyptian Jewish community is in a state of trepidation as a result of Lilienthal's plan, which he proposed after a meeting with Egyptian Prime Minister Gamal Abdul Nasser. Egyptian Jewish leaders fear that Lilienthal's meddling in the Middle East jeopardizes the existence of Jewish life in Egypt and other Arab states.

ISRAEL BOND CHANUKAH FESTIVALS HERE TO USE TORCH BLESSED ATOP MT. ZION

Rabbi S. Z. Cahana (above, fourth from right), Director General of the Ministry of Religious Affairs and Custodian of Mt. Zion, is shown on Mt. Zion as he dedicates a special torch which will be sent to the United States for use at an Israel Bond Chanukah Festival in New York's Madison Square Garden on Thursday, December 23, and at Chanukah celebrations in other major cities throughout the country. During the ceremonies, the torch was placed in the possession of members of the Maccabi Youth Organization (left), shown carrying the symbol of Israel's ancient-won freedom toward Modin, site of the victory of the Maccabees 2,000 years ago.

CHANUKAH TO START AT SUNSET SUNDAY, DEC. 19

The celebration of Chanukah, the eight-day Jewish holiday, begins at sunset, Sunday, December 19.

Known variously as the Festival of the Maccabees, of Dedication, and of the Lights, Chanukah commemorates the struggle of the Jews against the Syrian monarch, Antiochus, who sought to impose paganism upon them towards the close of the first century before the Common era. Led by the Maccabees, the Judeans fought the overwhelmingly superior forces of the world's mightiest nation for five years, and ultimately were victorious. Their success insured the survival of Judaism and is also credited with paving the way for the future emergence of Christianity.

With victory, the first act of the triumphant Jews was the rededication of the temple in Jerusalem, which had been desecrated by the invaders. The word, "Chanukah," means dedication. To observe the festival and history's first struggle for religious freedom, lights are lit on a special candelabrum (menorah) each night for eight nights, one the first night, two the second night, and so on, and prayers are voiced, thanking God for instilling the love of freedom into human hearts.

In synagogues, special supplications glorifying spiritual heroism are recited and sung. A typical Chanukah sentiment is contained in a passage from the Chanukah ritual read during the festival:

"With the loyalty and zeal of the Maccabees, may we overcome the dark forces of tyranny, prejudice and hatred and spread the light of liberty, brotherhood and peace among men."

Orthodox Rabbinate Blasts Conservatives On Changes Of Jewish Marriage Contract

NEW YORK, N. Y.—The Orthodox Rabbinate of America today condemned the recent action by the Conservative movement in altering the traditional Jewish marriage contract and establishing a "so-called Beth Din" as representing "the gravest implications to the sanctity of Jewish life in America and a most disastrous disavowal of the principles of Jewish Law."

Speak For 900 Rabbis

Joining in the statement were the Rabbinical Council of America, representing 600 Orthodox Rabbis in the United States and Canada and the Rabbinical Alliance of America, speaking in behalf of 300 more Orthodox Rabbis. Endorsement of the condemnation came from the heads of all Jewish Orthodox Theological Seminaries and the Chief Rabbis of England and Israel.

A joint statement of the Rabbis called upon the Conservative movement to withdraw its proposal immediately in the name of Jewish unity. "Should they persist, however, the Orthodox Rabbinate, hereby arises their co-religionists of their religious decision that the use of this amended Kethubah is forbidden. No Rabbi will officiate in any capacity in any ceremony where it is used. No acts or decisions of the projected Beth Din of the Conservative Rabbinate will be recognized as valid. A religious divorce granted by this Beth Din will not be honored. Should any one remarry on the basis of such a divorce he may endanger his religious family status and that of his offspring," the statement read.

"The Orthodox Rabbinate cannot countenance this projected tampering with these domestic relations by a group which has constantly demonstrated its denial of the divine character of the Law or by its "so-called Beth Din" which arrogates on to itself a traditional name and thus seeks to convey the erroneous impression that it is acting within the divinely revered Halachic tradition, when in fact it conceives of Jewish Law as merely customary—a matter of folkways and mores," they said.

The Orthodox Rabbis pointed out that not only will any act of the projected Beth Din be regarded as invalid but any action taken by them in relation to the marriage contract will be invalid and endanger the family status. Moreover, they pointed out the entire action is contrary to Jewish Law as well as the civil laws of this country.

The Atoms No. 1 continued their domination of the YMHA basketball league with a lopsided 74-52 victory over the Atoms No. 2 last Sunday afternoon. Shep Smith, the Atoms No. 1 big center, was almost unstoppable scoring 32 points and grabbing rebounds off both backboards. Bob Loddeke and Harvey Brown contributed 12 and 11 points respectively towards the winning total. Don Carafiol topped the losers with 18 points.

In the second Division No. 1 contest the Rangers won their first league game of the season defeating Missouri Lodge 78 to 68. At halftime the Rangers held a slim 29-26 lead which disappeared early in the third quarter.

With the score knotted at 30 all, the Rangers blew the game wide open scoring 12 times while Mo. Lodge was unable to find the basket. Center Hank Holtzman was high man for the winners with 25 points with Bill Wilansky adding 10 more. Mo. Lodge forward Dave Bornstein collected a total of 28 points, half of them coming from the free-throw line. Ben Goldman added 13 for the losers.

The Diabs, Pi Lambda Phi and the Seahawks were locked in a three-way tie for the Division No. 2 lead with identical 2-1 won and lost records as a result of last Sunday afternoon victories.

The St. Louis Silents were the victims of the Diabs, finishing on the short end of a 40 to 55 score. The game was a close one for the first half but became a runaway in the third period when the Silents were able to connect for but one lone field goal. Sid Kleg and Frank Goldman lead the winners balanced offensive with 10 tallies apiece. Carl Eaker scored 15 and Dayton Stone 11 for the Silents.

Pi Lambda Phi won another close game this time topping the Achims 49-46. Pi Lam's Larry Sanders was the game's high scorer with 18 points. Harold Blatt and Bob Glickman each got 10 for the winners. Jerry Marks was the only Achim to hit double figures, getting an even 10 points.

The Seahawks bounced back from their previous Sunday defeat with a 58-54 win over the Rebels. Seahawk Joe Zelson scored 21 points and could have had a really big afternoon if he could have found the range from the foul line. Irv Roselman added 14 tallies for the winners.

TREE OR MENORAH?

"Why don't you just buy a tree and be done with it?"

Nearly every Jewish parent can relate an incident when this question put him on the spot. The answer is usually a weak attempt to give a two-minute sermonette on the history of the Jewish people, or a subterfuge taking advantage of the accident of time, "Don't worry we have our Jewish Christmas, only we call it Chanukah."

The question of Chanukah and Christmas is usually a parent's problem. It touches Jewish children especially hard during the first year at school.

In many Jewish homes it takes little nudging from Junior to buy a Christmas tree. Its beauty seems to make up for any uneasy feeling. Further doubts as to the propriety to have a Christian symbol is silenced by the knowledge that Judaism has definitely no objection to the Christmas spirit of good will to men; therefore, why not use one of its symbols?

To celebrate Christmas in any way in a Jewish home is fundamentally wrong from a social and religious point of view. Although much of the religiosity of Christmas has been lost by commercial exploitation, Christmas is not an American folk festival. It celebrates the birth of Christ.

We are not advocating spiritual ghettoism. We are advocating the development of a Jewish home, well-integrated, with a consistent Jewish frame of living.

Some parents, who basically frown upon a Christian symbol in a Jewish home, plead that Junior is too young to understand. "Let him grow up and he'll get over it."

Get over what? That he is a Jew? That he has a different religion than his friend? Does it solve a problem to postpone its solution? Or is it preferable to wait for some thoughtless word, which will have Junior come home and ask, "Ma, I am not a Jew, am I?"

Why not take advantage of a period such as Christmas and point out the rich but different heritage of Jew and Christian? A word intended to harm will hurt much less the prepared than the unprepared.

To adopt the symbols of Christianity in a Jewish home will be to disturb the child's social and religious upbringing. The parent which explains the difference between Chanukah and Christmas is not depriving the child. If the child does experience a loss then it is likely to be the fault of the parent or teacher who failed to impart the profound meaning of Chanukah.

Chanukah is more than an historic event. It is the festive expression of devotion to a way of life. Jews have died for this way of life.

A healthy religious and cultural diversity can only exist in a give and take atmosphere. While the majority must be careful to safeguard the minority's right to develop independently, the minority must do its share in this democratic setting to nourish its individuality. Realistically, however, pressures are exerted to the contrary. The majority, through education, employment, personal relationships, enforce conformity... while the minority tends to lean backwards in its endeavor to be just like the neighbor, all but losing its identity.

Not only does the Jew who celebrates Christmas do harm to his Jewish heritage but he nullifies the work of many Christian ministers. Their message is that Christmas is a religious holiday, one with a profound and beautiful meaning which is not only an occasion for exchanging gifts. To claim, then, that it is merely an "American folk festival" is most unwelcome.

Each parent has to ask himself just one question. "Am I interested in raising my child as a Jew?" We address only those who are firmly convinced that his child's orientation shall be Jewish. With the rest we have no quarrel.

Conference Hears Call For Jewish Unity

Drive For Conformity And Assimilation Pose Grave Threats To Survival Of Jewish People, Jewish Leaders Tell Two-Day Assembly

Barriers and tensions between nations, the drive for conformity and assimilation are posing extremely grave threats to the survival of the Jewish people, internationally-noted Jewish leaders warned at a two-day conference sponsored by the American Jewish Congress' Commission on World Jewish Affairs and Israel, held in New York City.

Great 'Peril' Seen

Dr. Nahum Goldmann, president of the World Jewish Congress, noted that an "exaggerated optimism" has prevailed among the Jewish people since the Allied victory in World War II and the establishment of the State of Israel. Large segments of the people, he declared, believe that the "major Jewish problems have been solved and the future of the Jewish people secure. This appraisal is too superficial. As a matter of fact the survival of the Jewish people is in greater peril now than, perhaps, at any other time in the last several centuries. Numerically, the Jewish people have been reduced by one-third—from 18 million to 11 million. Nor can one regard the 2½ million Jews behind the Iron Curtain, isolated from contact with overseas Jewish communities, as an active force in Jewery. Cohesion and unity, always a primary condition for Jewery's survival, are much weaker today than ever before."

Dr. Prinz Warns

Dr. Joachim Prinz warned against "indifference, ignorance, assimilation and escape from Judaism. We need a new impetus for Jewish life.

"If we have learned a lesson from the past it is that Jewish isolationism is as dangerous to the existence of Judaism as is isolationism in general to the peaceful existence of the world.

"To a Jewry which enjoys freedom and prosperity in many parts of the world, we must come with the message imparted to us by the father of modern Zionism, Theodor

PROFESSIONALS SOUGHT AFTER IN ISRAEL—LEVINE

"Unusual opportunities for young American professionals exist in many fields in Israel," said Yehuda Levine, Midwest Director of PATWA, in an address last week at a Student Zionist Organization and Hillel Foundation meeting. Because of the country's expanding economy there is a growing demand for engineers, chemists, technicians and accountants, as well as for doctors and nurses.

Americans qualified by training and ability, said Levine, are much sought after, and he cited cases of professionals who had risen to prominent positions, though they often were quite young. They find themselves entrusted with a great deal more responsibility, once they have proven themselves, than they would have received at home.

Levine also addressed a campus audience at Washington University under Student Zionist sponsorship.

33 Schools Represented At Tercentenary Dinner

Star Announcements Keep Two Phones Busy

Editor, Jewish Star:

May I tell you how valuable to the city-wide Tercentenary celebration was the full page advertisement which appeared in the St. Louis Jewish Star on Monday, November 22nd.

As soon after the Star came into people's homes, two telephones in the Tercentenary office were kept busy answering inquiries about the availability of tickets. This activity was attributed directly to the advertisement in the Star. The magnificent turnout at the meeting was unquestionably helped by the very effective announcement of it carried in your paper.

I extend to you the appreciation of the American Jewish Tercentenary Committee of St. Louis.

F. M. ISSERMAN, Chairman, American Jewish Tercentenary Committee of St. Louis.

Editor, Jewish Star:

The Morgansteren family wish to thank the Star for the lovely tribute played to our father, Rabbi Morgansteren. His children and great-grandchildren feel that it was indeed a great honor to be recognized. . . .

YOU and YOUR CHILD

By Abraham J. Simon, Ph. D.,
Executive Director, Jewish Child
Welfare Association of St. Louis

Various phases of early child rearing will be the topic of a series of columns in future weeks. Having completed eating, we will move on to toilet training, nocturnal as well as diurnal (daytime) continence, progressive separation from parents leading up to successful all day school attendance, social relationship with children and adults, self care in dressing, cleanliness and feeding, regard for property, and the successful self control of unpleasant and undesirable attitudes or behavior. Since these will stretch over many months, specific requests will be given priority on the assumption that any one person who writes in represents a larger group than any guess of mine can anticipate.

As an introduction may I state that whether what I have written or will write, makes sense to you, largely depends on what may be called your "prevailing family atmosphere." This basic quality of a family varies only slightly once it is "set" by a couple in the early years of their marriage. It does not change much after children come. But we do get a much better picture then, because life gets infinitely more varied and complicated with children, and the "atmosphere" is more fully displayed. This quality of the family may be inferred from prominent features of the emotional interaction of the couple, and from what they consider most important or most valuable in their habitual behavior, and in the raising of their children.

Some families seem to be entirely food centered. The process of food selection, preparation and consumption monopolizes most of the parental interests. If they go out, visit, entertain, or travel, the conspicuous experiences are what, where, and how they were served and ate. Other families seem to be obsessed with cleanliness, and orderliness. Everything must be done in a regular, systematic fashion. A tremendous amount of energy is used up in cleaning, straightening, and controlling the family schedules. Rules are important for their own sake; formalities, and good manners take precedence over spontaneous feelings. These may be seen as potentially disruptive. Dirt and mess in any form is a threat, requiring immediate attack.

Then there is the primitive family where life is lived on the basis of immediate satisfaction of bodily and psychological impulses. There is also pride in being rough and ready. Conversations are "brutally" frank, spotted with the four letter Anglo-Saxon terms. By contrast, there is the intellectual family. Bodies have no worthwhile contents other than brains. Academic honors and high grades, art, literature, music, culture, and the contents of books seem the important things in life.

Then there is the family that lives on its past history. On brief acquaintance the family tree, going back several generations, is spread out to impress. Of course, only the prize fruit is on display. By contrast we have the family that is preoccupied with its dreams of the future. All kinds of deprivations, and distresses are justified as the foundations of that "dream house" which never seems to get built.

And, too frequently, we find the "money" family. Among people of modest means, as well as the affluent, we find families where we quickly observe that everything has a price tag. Sometimes the price tag must be very low, to impress the observer with bargain finding ability. At other times, it must be very high to impress with affluence. The actual price is often irrelevant. Even people in such families have a price tag. A person I know, after a ten minute consultation with his records, can tell you how much his wife cost from their first date, and how much each of his children cost from the first visit to the obstetrician.

There are authoritative families where one person is boss (and it is not necessarily father). The others can't call their soul their own. And the democratic family may too often be a polite way of describing the anarchic family.

All these qualities and interests are necessary and important at different times in a family's life. But when one quality monopolizes the situation, controls the entire family life, and maintains its inflexible dominance through thick and thin, some mighty severe disturbances, are bound to develop as children start to grow up. Parents must then ask themselves: "What is our atmosphere like?" If the family symphony is played in one key only, dominated by one section of the orchestra, take heed! The family atmosphere has to be flexible and varied, depending on changing needs at different stages of child development. Be open-minded about changing the key, allowing different sections to play, and even changing the music from child to child, and from age to age.

Miss Beverly's Social Notes

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gross of East St. Louis on the birth of a baby boy, Stanley.

Rabbi and Mrs. Benjamin D. Cohen of East St. Louis returned from Chicago where they attended the wedding of Mrs. Cohen's brother Mark I. Finfer to Miss Fay Kane.

Benjamin Novack is a patient in an East St. Louis hospital following a heart attack.

Wendy Lyn to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Farer, December 7.

Did you know that "American Judaism" reports that Aloe Plaza, one of the landmarks of St. Louis, memorializes Louis P. Aloe, a member of Shaare Emeth Temple, who was acting mayor of the city during World War I. . . . The Rabbi Samuel Sale Museum in Shaare Emeth Temple, a memorial to the man who was the congregation's spiritual leader for thirty-two years, contains a notable collection of Judaica. . . . One of the two baptistry doors on St. Louis Christ Church Cathedral bears a series of Jewish symbols, the word for God in Hebrew and a Hebrew inscription. This door, and a similar one containing Christian symbols, are known as the Bishop Scarlett Baptistry doors and were presented to the cathedral in 1942 by Temple Israel when he completed ten years of service as a bishop.

TRULYWEDS ELECT MRS. J. KAPLAN

Mrs. Joseph (Bobbie) Kaplan succeeded Dr. Irvin Edelman as president of the Trulyweds during last week's meeting at Temple B'nai El, where Rabbi Bertram Klausner, adviser, spoke briefly on the principles of Chanukah.

Elected with Mrs. Kaplan were Marvin Wool, vice-president; Mrs. Joseph (Eileen) Sessel, secretary; Harold Berick, treasurer; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Resnick and Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle Brasch, publicity, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Weingart, host and hostess.

Rabbi Klausner, recently consecrated as co-rabbi of Temple B'nai El with Rabbi Julina H. Miller, also spoke on the principles of the Trulywed organization, which membership of 50 is dedicated to the advancement of good fellowship. The organization was founded in December, 1953.

Mrs. Kaplan, active in scouting activities, is a native of this city. Prior to her election she was vice-president of the group. The former Miss Bobbie Klotz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Klotz, the new president, lives with her husband and their two children at 5613 Highland. She also assists in Sunday school teachings at the Temple.

Dr. Edelman, a dentist with offices in Maplewood, graduated from St. Louis University dental School in 1946.

300 Christian Leaders Urge No Arms To The Near East

More than 300 Christian leaders from 36 states and the District of Columbia urged the President and the Secretary of State today to refrain from sending arms to the Near East until peace within the region is assured.

In a joint declaration submitted to President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, the group advocated that the United States urge the dissident parties to reach a peaceful settlement and grant economic and technical assistance to the Near East "to help it fight the foes that breed dissent, revolution and communism, namely oppressive poverty, widespread illiteracy and debilitating diseases."

Federation Facts

(A report to the Jewish Community of St. Louis on some of the activities of the Jewish Federation by Herman L. Kaplow, Executive Director, Jewish Federation of St. Louis.)

March Wedding Planned For Dorothy Rothbarth, Stanley Hoffman

Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Rothbarth, Cloverdale Farm, 9500 Bellefontaine road, have announced the engagement of their daughter Miss Dorothy Lee Rothbarth to Stanley Hoffman of St. Louis. The wedding is to take place in March.

The bride-to-be is an alumna of Clayton High School and received her bachelor of science degree from Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

Stanley Hoffman is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Hoffman of Beverly Hills, Cal.

Audrey Sue Gale, Alvin Cohn Wed

Miss Audrey Sue Gale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gale, 7311 Shaftesbury avenue, University City, was married to Alvin Sheldon Cohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cohn, Chicago, Illinois. The couple are living temporarily with her parents.

Last week the Women's Division of the Jewish Federation completed a highly successful series of four meetings on current problems in the area of human and civil rights entitled "Tell It Straight." The unusually high attendance at these sessions attested to the fact that thinking people continue to be very much disturbed about what is happening today to their rights and liberties as individuals.

Some of those in attendance were a little surprised to learn of the Federation's interest in this subject matter. They had been under the impression that the Federation limits itself to the areas of health, recreation, services to families and children, and the like.

Actually, the Federation has responsibility for the health and welfare of the Jewish community in a broad sense. Whatever affects the social well being of the Jewish community as a whole is of concern to the Federation.

Maintenance of the dignity of the individual and the preservation of his freedom and other rights has always been a prime concern of Jews—not only for themselves but for all people. It is not achieved except by constant vigilance and devoted effort.

In recognition of the importance of this field of endeavor the Federation allocates a total of almost $100,000.00 per year in support of this work in St. Louis, through our Jewish Community Relations Council, and nationally through such organizations as the American Jewish Committee, the Anti-Defamation League, the American Jewish Congress, the Jewish War Veterans and the Jewish Labor Committee. All of these agencies, working together, carry major responsibility for safeguarding our human and civil rights. The amount of time, effort and money invested in this work is large but the human values at stake are much greater.
